"Murdered" Woman Very Much Alive; Beat Her Husband

"A woman is being murdered at 1029 Hancock avenue. Get the police," was the excited cry of a woman at 7:30 o'clock this morning as she ran into Kelley's saloon at 1074 Hancock avenue. The bartender instead of calling police headquarters, called Superintendent J. H. Redgate's house and related the murder to him. The superintendent transferred the call to police headquarters and Lieutenant James Walker sent Detectives Frank Holbrook and Thomas Malone to capture the murderer. In the department automobile they were whisked to the house to find Percy H. Peck, who had made a bad job of trying to beat his wife. He had taken an umbrella and being it double, used it as a club when his wife refused to give him money to purchase drink. He was laid out when the police arrived. Peck was locked up and the wife, Jennie, subpoenaed as a witness. In the city court the affairs of the couple were aired and after Judge F. A. Bartlett had severely reprimanded Peck, he imposed a 60 days jail sentence but suspended execution. The couple left the court room arm in arm.

Coroner Probes Two Electrocutions From Railroad Live Wires

Two electrocutions, one in Stamford and the other in Norwalk, were investigated by Coroner Phelan this afternoon. He said before leaving for the scene of the fatalities that he had not been informed of the names of the men killed. The Norwalk man was found dead on top of an electric engine in the railroad yards. He was not a railroad employee, so far as is known. One of the crew found the body while trying to repair a motor. In Stamford a man dropped dead while repairing an electric lamp post in Atlantic square.

VILLA'S ROUT AT PARRAL BIG BLOW TO REBELS' CAUSE

El Paso, July 21.—Passengers arriving here today from Parral say that Villa's ineffectual attempt to take that town a week ago Sunday was a far greater moral than military defeat, so far as the bandit's cause is concerned. Before the attack Villa was regarded with awe by the populace in that vicinity, the arrivals say, but now the natives pride themselves on their loyalty to the de facto government. They are also proud of their part in humiliating the bandit leader.

The shipment of 250,000 rounds of small arms ammunition from Columbus to the punitive force, which gave rise to sensational rumors here is explained today by the military authorities as merely the usual supply for target practice. Rumors to the effect that General Pershing intended to move south and re-occupy Nampiquila and other abandoned points, find no support among the army men or government officials.

U. S. Coast Guard Aids Battle Against Sharks

Washington, July 21.—Captain Garden, of the coast guard cutter Mohawk, sent to the New Jersey coast to aid in the campaign against sharks, reported today that he had visited many beach resorts, consulting with local authorities on the best means of protecting bathers by erection of steel wire. Some resorts, he said, already had put up proper enclosures, but others had erected nets of insufficient strength. He will visit all the bathing beaches along the New Jersey shore.

HARBOR HAPPENINGS.

Weatherbound in the local harbor because of the foggy condition of the Sound for the last few days are the tug Charles McWilliams with a tow of light barges, bound west, and the Hockendagua with a loaded tow of eight barges bound east. A Standard Oil tug entered yesterday with two loaded barges for this port.

GAS STOVE FIRES CURTAINS

Flames from a gasoline cooking stove set fire to the curtains in the basement kitchen of the house at 48 River street this afternoon. The house is owned by Edward Schiber of 40 River street. Searing smoke issuing from the kitchen some neighbors called the fire department by ringing Box 83. The inmates had extinguished the blaze with buckets of water when the apparatus arrived. The damage is about $10.

time is lost searching a street for a family that isn't there. It has been suggested that entering families be made to swear to the information they give, and this procedure may be adopted.

The milk investigation began today and samples will be received tomorrow. It is expected, from grocery stores. This morning Dr. A. C. Knapp, milk inspector, took six samples from peddlers and sent them to Middletown for examination.

Paul Keane, of 2936 Main street, was added to the assistant staff this morning at the health department.

He will answer the telephone and take garbage complaints. Yesterday afternoon an indignant citizen stormed the offices and complained bitterly of the danger of garbage that was accumulating in his yard. He said maggots of tremendous size were breeding there.

A complaint came from 59 Arch street this morning that a driver of a garbage wagon had dumped a bucket of garbage on the sidewalk and refused to remove it. It was left there, a treat for flies and ants.

Trouble has been caused in the health department by the inaccuracy of physicians in reporting cases of suspects. Frequently only the address has been given, sometimes the wrong name, and sometimes only the last name. The records require name, age, sex, etc., and it is often a day or two before they can be straightened out.

That the flight of families from New York is abating is disclosed in the nurses' reports. Several days ago there were 84 children to be examined, after entering the city, and the next day 54. Day before yesterday 42 were recorded and yesterday only 8.

K. H. Keach, town marshal of Dawson Springs, Ky., was shot and killed in a pistol duel.

PORT JEFFERSON TRIP IS DELIGHTFUL IN SUMMER TIME.

"Where can we go?" "What can we do?" are two questions which vacationists and others are continually asking and they are two questions which the Bridgeport and Port Jefferson Steamboat Co. is successfully and satisfactorily answering every day in its matinee excursions to the quaint old island town across the Sound. To one who has never been there it is a trip of exploration. To those who have experienced its delights it is the ever-changing trip, which the mood of the sky and sea make it. To all men land harbor blues, while the ex-

It is pleasure. Leaving the hot city at 1:30 p. m., the sturdy little steamer Park City, is soon out of the harbor and on the breeze-cooled Sound, its upper deck well filled with excursionists who enjoy every minute of the trip, from the time Bridgeport Light and Seaside park are left behind, Stratford shoal Light, commonly known as Middleground Light, is passed, the sandbanks of Long Island come more plainly to view; Belle Terre, the select residential colony on the east shore of Port Jefferson harbor, is reviewed and the boat ties up to the pier.

curtionists wait for the gang plank to be run in. The motorists, who make the trip, get their machines off of the boat and hustle away, leaving those on foot to take more time to inspect the village, with its old-fashioned houses, shady streets and stores. Outside the street "business" district may be found many places of business which are, to say the least, quaint. The boat returning leaves Port Jefferson at 4:30 o'clock.
